The no. 1 for printing technologies will once again prove its position as the world's leading trade fair DRUPA for the industry. With 1,850 exhibitors from more than 79 countries, Drupa underscores that it is the most relevant and important platform for the global print industry in 2020. The top exhibiting nations are Germany, Italy, Japan, China, Great Britain and the Netherlands. At the 2020 edition see new exhibitors along the entire value-chain and various cross-cutting technologies.

New highlights for more attention, the print and media industry is changing. New technologies are establishing themselves. With the highlight themes of print, functional printing, packaging production, multichannel, 3D printing and green printing, DRUPA is responding to this change and are opening up new visitor target groups with state-of-the-art technologies and new solutions.

one world - one drupa

The last staging of Drupa in 2016 was an overwhelming success with around 1,850 exhibitors from 79 countries, 260,165 visitors from 189 countries attending the show in an exhibition space of 158237 sq. mtrs, proving once again that it is the industry's leading event worldwide. Not only is DRUPA the trade fair to see latest developments and to place orders, it is also a confidence barometer for the entire print media industry itself, its markets, its clients and its suppliers.

Drupa's range is impressive, featuring both traditional and pioneering technologies for pre-press and pre-media, printing (machinery, appliances and accessories), book binding and print finishing as well as paper converting services including packaging production, materials and consumables.

Drupa 2020 will again be the meeting place for global experts – leading to greater success!
